The CoP is an excellent forum to learn what others in the field have done, are doing and plan to do; what their successes and challenges have been and are. Through other CoP members experiences we have identified possibilities for our own organisation and hope to realise several of them. The meetings tend to be very inspirational, supportive and include moments of fun!

Overview

Are you a community-led business? Do want to improve the community-led delivery health and social care services? Power to Change is looking to recruit new members to its health and social care.

Power to Change is an independent trust, whose funding is used to strengthen community businesses across England. At a time when many parts of the UK face cuts, neglect and social problems, we are helping local people come together to take control, and make sure their local areas survive and stay vibrant.

No one understands a community better than the people who live there. In some areas, people are already coming together to solve problems for themselves, and we support them as they run businesses which help their whole community and recycles money back into the local area. Community businesses revive local assets, protect the services people rely on, and address local needs.

Power to Change is building the evidence base for achieving health and social care outcomes through community business. We also want to create the right conditions for these to thrive and grow long-term.

The Community of Practice (CoP) is designed to better understand the potential models for community business to succeed in addressing health and social care issues, and the challenges facing organisations with community led/shared ownership models currently working in this space. We will draw on the learning generated through the CoP to influence policy and practice.

The CoP has been running since July 2018 and is entering a second phase in April 2019. We are seeking additional members to complement the existing group of six which has been working together over the past six months. In total we are looking for 10 to 14 individuals from community businesses, or organisations which are close to a community business model and looking to transition to become a community business, that are delivering health and/or social care services, to join our CoP.

Over 12 months, they will build on the work of phase 1 exploring the best approaches to, and the challenges of, health and social care service delivery for community businesses in a supportive and engaging peer environment, sharing their findings to help the sector develop effective and sustainable services.

Please read through this guidance and if after doing so, you believe your organisation fits our criteria, then we would welcome an application from you.

Diversity and inclusion

Power to Change is committed to the advancement of equality, diversity and inclusion. It seeks to be a genuinely inclusive organisation by advancing equality and diversity through its policies and practices.

We encourage and welcome applications from individuals from all backgrounds, who meet our criteria, and who are looking to improve the impact and sustainability of community-led/shared ownership delivery of health and social care services.
Part One
What does the health and social care community of practice do?

A Community of Practice (CoP) is formed by people who engage in a process of collective learning in a shared area of interest, in this case health and social care delivery by community businesses. Through regularly sharing experiences and learning with each other, members of the CoP improve and enhance their individual practice.

In practice, members build relationships with one another, have joint discussions and activities, support each other and share information from their own experience. Over time working together in this way the CoP develops shared tools, stories and approaches to addressing challenges. This shared practice influences the work of each individual and the work of each community business they represent. The learning so far has covered a range of topics including diversifying income generation streams and exploring different ways of working with one another.

Each organisation we support will need to nominate an individual to take part in our CoP, which will explore the challenges and success factors in increasing the impact and sustainability of effective community business health and social care service delivery.

For more information on communities of practice please see http://wenger-trayner.com/introduction-to-communities-of-practice/

What will this community of practice do?

The CoP aims to support community businesses, and those transitioning to a community business model, to deliver better and more sustainable health and social care services. It does this by creating a collaborative, problem solving, action-learning style environment. Members of the CoP take part in both face-to-face and remote sessions to share challenges, approaches and learning with one another. The CoP also engages with other groups to both build and share its learning and expertise. For instance in December 2018 a group of commissioners attended the CoP meeting.

This second phase of the CoP will build on the work to date which has included a focus on diversifying income streams, building individual organisational plans to do so, engaging with commissioners and strategic influencing through attendance at events.

Individual practitioners in the CoP will develop their practice, learn from others’ experiences, support others to learn from their experiences and to engage with others to develop approaches to tackle shared challenges.

We are bringing together individuals representing a broad range of organisations within the sector with a shared interest in the delivery of health and/or social care services within your local community. We will recruit a diverse range of members to represent different models and types of service delivery.

Supported by a convener

A convener will facilitate and capture the learning of the CoP to share it with members and the broader community business and health and social care sector. This learning will also be shared with Power to Change. The external facilitating group also acts as administrators and in a knowledge management capacity for the CoP; it will be responsible for supporting CoP members through accessing and sharing information and providing some research assistance.
Part One
What does the health and social care community of practice do?

The Health and Social Care Community of Practice will:

- Come together as a group of practitioners, supported by an external convener, with the mission to explore challenges and success factors to community businesses delivering sustainable health and social care services which deliver positive outcomes for users.
- Attend face-to-face meetings, live online events and take part in ongoing collaboration
- Develop and share insight into the challenges and success factors relating to community-led/shared ownership models of delivering health and social care services
- Draw on fresh experiences and input from a range of experts from inside and outside the community business and health and social care sector. This will be facilitated by the convener at the CoP’s request.
- Increase the knowledge, skills, capacity and practice of the individual practitioners and the organisations they represent
- Contribute to the development of new knowledge and creative solutions to meet the challenge of delivering sustainable and high-quality health and social care services through community-led/shared ownership models
- Develop and share learning to influence and support the wider sector
- Contribute to and be supported to engage in strategic influencing

Who is not eligible?

- Individuals and sole traders
- Staff time/expenses that is unrelated to CoP membership
- Organisations whose sole purpose is the advancement of religion
- Organisations that do not have charitable purpose (this does not mean you need to be constituted as a charity)
- Organisations not currently delivering health and/or social care services
- Organisations based outside England

The CoP is an institution in its own right. I have explored, investigated, learnt and debated so many health and social care areas that would be impossible otherwise. The collective experience and wisdom of this group has been invaluable for my work. I highly recommend this group for personal development, sharing good practice and developing a direction for Power to Change in this critical sector.

Part Two:
What is a community business?

We are looking for community businesses to join our CoP. A community business has the four following features. Your organisation does not need to show how it currently meets all of these features but must show the future potential, ambition and plans to do so. We appreciate that in the context of health and social care organisations may, for instance, trade over a larger area due to the size of contracts available or predominantly benefit one (or a few) groups within a community. Please see the specific guidance relating to individual questions below.

Locally rooted

Trading for the benefit of the local community

Accountable to the local community

Broad community impact

Burton Street Foundation

They are rooted in a particular geographical place and respond to its needs. For example, that could be high levels of urban deprivation or rural isolation.

Burton Street foundation in Sheffield brought a former school building back into use organised by the community, for the community.

B Active N’ B Fit

They are businesses. Their income comes from things like renting out space in their buildings, trading as cafes, selling produce they grow or generating energy.

B Active N’ B Fit tailors it’s classes and programmes to benefit the whole community with a focus on public health.

Alt Valley

They are accountable to local people, for example through a community shares offer that creates members who have a voice in the business’s direction.

Through community engagement, Alt Valley make sure that the services they provide cater to the local community’s needs and empower local people to make decisions, implement change and improve the quality of their lives through direct local action.

BS3

They benefit and impact their local community as a whole. They often morph into the hub of a neighbourhood, where all types of local groups gather, for example to access broadband or get training in vital life skills.

BS3 are making a massive impact in Bristol; children from local nurseries are integrated with older residents in a nearby care home and young volunteers spend time with older neighbours introducing them to basic technology skills. Both activities reduce loneliness and isolation of local older people.
Part Three: Can I apply?

To apply to become a member of the Power to Change health and social care community of practice, you must be based in England and meet the following criteria:

1. Be part of a community business or organisation that wants to be a community business that delivers health and social care

We will take into account how beneficial being part of the CoP will be to your organisation when assessing applications.

The Community of Practice will focus on health and social care activities that can be commissioned or purchased. We know many organisations will deliver both commissioned services and broader wellbeing and preventative activities, however for the community of practice we are for those that also deliver the more formal health or social care service.

Some organisations choose to cross-subsidise service provision, funding it through profit generated from other trading activities, this is also eligible for the CoP. For example, a community business delivering domiciliary care, a community-led healthy living hub delivering counselling services to the local community or a community business delivering post-natal services.

2. Have an active role in health and social care delivery

Applicants to the CoP should have an active role in the delivery of health or social care services at either a community business or at an organisation which is (or is planning to) transition to a community business model.

You should be able to provide a broad range of insight from the experience of your organisation including the design of health or social care services, funding and business models, any regulatory challenges and/or solutions and delivery of health or social care services. It is therefore expected that members of the CoP will be relatively senior staff, depending on the size of the organisation. Potential job roles include, although not exclusively, registered managers, directors, chief executives, senior leaders in health and social care delivery at community businesses

We are looking for the following skills and experience of the practitioner:

- Experience of health or social care service delivery at a managerial or senior position
- Sufficient authority within the nominating organisation to influence practice based on learning from within the CoP
- Experience working in a senior level within a community business, or organisation transitioning towards a community business model
- Experience of business development and/or income generation, in particular through commissioning and procurement and the use of personal budgets
- Understanding of organisational business model, for instance understanding sources of income, how services are funded, whether there is any cross-subsidisation of or from health and social care services and any of the challenges associated with the organisational business model

3. Can commit to CoP meetings for a year

Regular sessions are important for members of the CoP to develop trust and practice. You will be expected to commit to a face-to-face session every 6-8 weeks over 12 months (approx. 11am to 4/5pm, often visiting exemplar community businesses around the country) and 90-120 min virtual meetings in between.

Members will also need to be able to allocate time around sessions to critically engage with preparation and any follow up they take away from sessions. There may additionally be some online engagement with the CoP.

To enable members to dedicate time and resource to critically engaging with the CoP and getting the most possible from participation, the organisations which members represent will be reimbursed £300 (pro rata) per day spent engaging with the CoP, plus reasonable travel and expenses. This will include reasonable time outside CoP sessions for preparation and further work.
